

BITTER FIGHT ON TAXATION PLAN NOW ASSURED

All Hope of Compromise Now Appears to Be Gone

INSIST ON $129,000,000.00

Pinchot Forces and Organization Supporters Ready for Test

By Leo V. Dolan
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 25.—Shatter factional lines and political pledges, hasty mobilization of opposing forces in Senate and House got under way today with administration backers insisting the original $129,000,000 unemployment plan be pushed to enactment, and administration foes as strongly insistent that support be given the new "organization" $12,750,000 program.

The long heralded "compromise" on the cigarette-gasoline-billboard taxation program, sponsored by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, has failed to materialize. As predicted by International News Service, the issue will be fought through to a bitter end by friends and foes of the Governor.

Political observers here are unanimous in declaring the issue has been simplified, through revelation of the "organization" plan, into a two-phase matter. They sum up the situation as follows:

1. The Legislature can support the original administration plan entailing an expenditure of $129,000,000 and three new revenue measures to make it possible, or

2. The Legislature can support the anti-administration plan calling for an expenditure of $12,750,000, but carrying no new levies.

Political cross currents are muddying the stream but it is certain the alternative measures will provide the terrain over which the battle will be fought. It is likewise certain that Governor Pinchot will lead his forces into the fight under the "no compromise" banner.

The opposition program was sponsored late yesterday by a group of House members who, from the first, have been critical of the Governor's claims regarding actual unemployment and the need for huge State appropriations, raised by new taxation, to feed and house the idle. It is no secret that a majority of the Senate also favors the scheme.

The chief feature of the new program is a $10,000,000 appropriation from the general fund which will be paid directly to political subdivision for poor relief. The new plan also backs the administration proposals for emergency aid to hospitals and sponsors small appropriations to provide "made work" and relief.

Highway Improved Over Tulphocken Creek; Open

A highway improvement over the Tulphocken Creek on the State Highway between Kulp's Corners and Bedminsterville, Bucks County, has been completed and opened to traffic.

A narrow covered wooden bridge has been replaced by a modern plate girder bridge with a 30-foot road surface. Secretary of Highways Sam Lewis said. The under clearance is 13 feet, which eliminates a flooding condition formerly experienced on the old bridge. The approaches likewise have been improved with a widened and elevated macadam surface for 1500 feet. During the seasons of high waters this section was often under water.

Work was started in August this year and the contract price of the improvement was $22,741.00.

It is the plan of Miss Smoyer and her associates to make this party one long to be remembered by the little kiddies, who otherwise would not have a happy Christmas.

The Spirit of Thanksgiving

THE LATER HISTORY OF THANKSGIVING

During American Colonial history, Thanksgiving was a feast day largely confined to the New England States.

Following an action by the United States Congress, President George Washington proclaimed November 26, 1789, as the first national Thanksgiving Day, in gratefulness for the adoption of the Federal Constitution.

In 1855 Governor Johns of Virginia asked the State Legislature to set aside a day for Thanksgiving, so that he might issue a formal call for its observance. For some years, Thanksgiving Days were regulated by the various states. They fell upon almost any of the Thursdays in November.

During the Civil War, Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale, of Philadelphia, sent to President Lincoln without comment a copy of the original proclamation of George Washington. President Lincoln proclaimed a national Thanksgiving Day. Firmly established as a national matter, the custom has continued unchanged.

W. Clarence Griest, Trevose,
Given Decree by Judge
Keller

CHARGES CRUEL ACTS

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 25.—President Judge Hiram H. Keller yesterday handed down opinions in which three divorces were granted in the Court of Common Pleas upon payment of costs.

W. Clarence Griest, of Trevose, Heights, P. R. T. trolley operator, who was shot in the back by his wife, Mrs. Helen Griest early this year as he was dressing to leave for his employment early in the morning, was granted a divorce on grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. Mrs. Griest, after the shooting, was committed to the Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Women at Muncy.

Elizabeth B. Gilliland, of Richboro, was granted a divorce from her husband, Winfield S. Gilliland, of Pineville, on grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment.

A divorce was granted to Laura Hilda South, of Morrisville, from her husband, David O'iver South, of 232 Spring street, Trenton, on grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment.

Judges Keller and Calvin S. Boyer also heard testimony in the habeas corpus proceeding brought by Lucinda Myers, of 407 Walnut street, Perkasie, against Stella Groman, of Keelersville Hotel, East Rockhill township. The proceeding was brought by the petitioner to get the custody of a six-year-old daughter of the defendant.

The child, Oleda Lerch, the petitioner claims was taken from her custody on Nov. 4, 1931, while the child was attending Sunday School in Perkasie. Pending the court's disposition of the case, it was directed that the child remain in the custody of her mother, the defendant in this case, under the direction of the county probation officer, until the completion of the trial.

Witnesses were called by both sides yesterday. The witnesses called by the petitioner, including Lucinda Myers, Helen Myers, Emma Johnson, Sarah E. Jones, Frank Benner, Mahlon Keller and Miss Gertrude Bright. (Continued on Page 6)

The "ultimatum" consisted of a set of detailed instructions from Dr. Wellington Koo, China's new minister of foreign affairs, in which Dr. Sze was told to accept an appointment of a neutral commission to investigate Manchuria only if Japan will agree to evacuate her troops within 15 days after the resolution appointing the commission is adopted. The effect of his informal presentation of the instructions was like a bomb shell. Members of the Council and U. S. Ambassador Dawes stood aghast. The American Ambassador, it was stated, lost no time in telling Dr. Sze the instructions were full of dynamite.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS SCORE A POINT IN THEIR LEGAL BATTLE

Judge Shull Quashes Indictment Against Hilltown Group

ANOTHER CASE PENDING

Seeks to Prevent Awarding of Contracts for School House

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 25.—Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Stroudsburg, yesterday handed down opinions in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Bucks County in which the indictments against members of the school board of Hilltown Township, charging malfeasance in office, were quashed.

This is the latest step in the sensational and long drawn out fight waged by the Hilltown Taxpayers' League against members of the school board, and the opinion of Judge Shull chalks up another point in favor of the school board.

At the last term of criminal court H. Warren Moyer, Elmer S. Umstead, Arthur B. Moyer and Irvin D. Garis were indicted by the Grand Jury. A motion was then made by Mark Thatcher, counsel for the school directors, to have the indictment quashed. Arguments followed and the opinion handed down this morning, containing a short but clear resume of the cases, sustained the demurrer and quashed the indictments. This means that no criminal case will be tried against the directors.

There is still another case pending in which the school directors are involved. It is an injunction proceeding in equity court, seeking to prevent the issuing of contracts for the erection of a new consolidated school.

The written opinion in the criminal cases was filed in the case of H. Warren Moyer, and in the cases of the other defendants, Judge Shull ruled that the same reasons filed in the Moyer case would prevail. The H. Warren Moyer opinion is as follows:

"This matter comes before the Court on a demurrer to the indictment. The information is made and laid under the 66th section of the Act of 1860, L. 399, which, inter alia, provides that it shall not be lawful for any councilman, burgess, trustee or manager of an incorporation, municipality or public institution to be in any wise interested in any contract for the sale or furnishing of any supplies or materials to be used by the municipality of which he shall be a member or officer.

"The gist of the offense under this section of that Act is that the defendant be either directly or indirectly financially interested in the sale or furnishing of supplies or materials; that is, that he either directly or indirectly profit from moneys paid out by the municipality and in this particular case, if there be any offense, it must be shown that the defendant, who is a school director, either directly or indirectly profited by moneys paid out by the school board.

"The information alleges that this defendant was paid. It does not allege by whom the defendant was paid and unless he was paid either directly or indirectly from or by reason of the moneys paid out by the school board, it is not a criminal offense under this section of the law.

"The mere fact that he was paid is not sufficient. It must have been either directly or indirectly from or by reason of the moneys paid out by the School Board. That the moneys be paid out by the School Board is one of the elements and a most important one going to constitute the offense here charged.

"This must have been realized by the District Attorney in preparing the indictments as it is alleged in the indictment that this defendant was paid by the School Board, but the information contains no such allegation and therefore there is no foundation on which it can rest to warrant the insertion of it in the indictment. For this reason, this indictment must be quashed."

THANKSGIVING THOUGHTS

Festive family dinners and reunions are not the whole of Thanksgiving. There is the serious side. The idea of a day set apart to remember the bounties of Almighty God had in it originally the thought of a solemn inventory of moral and spiritual resources also. A review of the presidential Thanksgiving proclamations for half a century reveals the fact that not once but many times the duty of gratitude is enjoined upon the people. Even in those far away days of the Pilgrim Fathers there was coupled with the Thanksgiving feast a solemn dedication to right living and a quickened conscience. The religious motive in Thanksgiving has been fundamental in the life of the nation from the first.

In the 155 years of American independence there has been no Thanksgiving when the need for sober thought and a spirit of humility were so necessary as today. America is the wealthiest nation in the world. Her people are by far the more blessed in creature comforts. She is the most powerful nation on earth and knows it. The people of other countries look to America with commingled envy and admiration. It is easy for a nation to become unduly proud, self-centered and complacent. In times of prosperity thanksgiving is more difficult than in adversity, because the temptation to depend upon material things is strong and almost irresistible. Penitence, humility and contrition seem unnecessary and just a little embarrassing.

"America! America!
God mend thine every flaw;
Confirm thy soul in self-control,
Thy liberty in law!"

RAILROADS' IMPASSE

Last year the railroads of the United States paid out more than $2,500,000,000 in wages to more than 1,500,000 workers. They purchased more than a billion dollars' worth of material, consuming one-fourth of the country's soft coal output and 17 per cent of the steel and iron output. They constitute one of the principal markets for cement and other building materials and for electrical equipment.

These are some of the reasons for President Hoover's recent remark that the railroads are the keys of industry in the United States more than in any other country. Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, enlarged upon the President's statement by pointing out the indispensable service rendered by the railroads and their intimate relation to national welfare.

In spite of their indispensability and key position in all industry the rails are sick. Their earnings are constantly diminishing, their business declines in spite of the "doctors" and they are employing fewer and fewer men.

What is the tonic their systems crave for? It isn't less truck competition because the truck's share of the freight traffic is only 3 per cent. Less bus competition might help, but the roads always contended that there was no profit in carrying passengers, and, moreover, their real competitor in this branch is the private automobile. The passenger business was reduced to a shadow of its former self before bus transportation grew out of its swaddling clothes.

Pennsylvania Was First State in Rail, Steamboat and Highway Development

By WILLIAM SULLIVAN

PENNSYLVANIA'S importance in the development of transportation methods is unique. Even though the year 1790 witnessed a slowing up in modern highway building, the Keystone state is famous because it was one of the very first to undertake a progressive program of durable highway construction, when it became apparent that the automobile was to become a practical vehicle of commerce. But more interesting still is the fact that it was in this state that two epoch-making events in the annals of transportation took place.

Epoch-making, to be sure they were, but it is doubtful if the average person is aware of these two facts of American history.

The first steam locomotive to turn a wheel on rails in the whole western hemisphere rolled out of Honesdale on August 8, 1829.

The first passenger-carrying steamboat in the world was invented by John Fitch in Bucks County and made its maiden trip on the Delaware River, between Philadelphia and Burlington, N. J. in June, 1790. This was nearly twenty years before Robert Fulton's Clermont steamed up the Hudson River.

The "Stourbridge Lion" was the name of the diminutive locomotive which gave Pennsylvania the distinction of being the first state to witness the mechanical propulsion of a vehicle on rails. It was imported from Stourbridge, England by Horatio Allen of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, for use in the company's coal mining operations. The records show that after two trips the Stourbridge Lion had to be abandoned because of track difficulties. For a good many years the Stourbridge Lion rusted away in a shed, but finally it came into its own again as an exhibit in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C., where its record is being forever preserved.

John Fitch's steamboat does not seem to have ever been christened. This may have been because the inventor was too poor to buy champagne. That he was often on intimate terms with poverty there is no doubt. Spurned or ignored by such celebrities as George Washington and Benjamin Franklin, and given scant consideration by the State legislatures of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, it was with great difficulty that he finally succeeded in building a steamship that would carry passengers. Here is the first steamboat advertisement ever printed, which appeared in June, 1793, in "The Pennsylvania Packet and other newspapers."

is now ready to take passengers, and is intended to set off from Arch Street ferry in Philadelphia, every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, for Burlington, Bristol, Bordentown and Trenton, to return Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Price for passengers 25 to Burlington and Bristol, 30 to Bordentown and Trenton.

Since the date of the Stourbridge Lion and John Fitch's boat, steamship and steamboat have made steady progress until today we have transportation service that is one of the marvels of the world. In a remarkably short time the automobile has developed from a sputtering street curiosity to a highly efficient vehicle, of which there are nearly 27,000,000 on our roads and streets today.

Yet strangely enough, highway development has not kept pace with this tremendous production and utilization of the automobile which has done so much to promote the social and economical welfare of this country. Too many "horse and buggy" types of roads are being built and maintained at great annual expense in places where the need for durable, first class highways is clearly indicated. An analogous situation would be to have powerful locomotives and fine coaches and pullman cars but only poorly ballasted and dangerous roadbeds over which to operate them.

With many it is a matter of regret that Pennsylvania has virtually abandoned first class construction on the state highway system and concentrated on low-cost surfacing for a large mileage of back roads which will serve relatively little traffic. Long ago engineers pointed out that roads such as these become a tremendous, and increasingly, costly burden to motorists because of the extensive repairs which are necessary annually as a result of damage by freezing and rain.

The records show that in the eight years up to 1931 the mileage of durable highway construction in Pennsylvania exceeded that of all other types, but that in 1931 durable construction represented less than eight per cent of the total.

"The CZARINA'S RUBIES"

by Sidney Warwick

In an instant, forgetting his professed lameness, forgetting his crutches, he had sprung to his feet.

couldn't offer to help, of course, with only one sound leg to hobble on!" "That's hard luck," said Martell. The talk drifted to desultory topics, but a certain constraint seemed to pervade it. That both Sant, usually so fond of hearing his own voice, and Martell seemed to be in a pre-occupied mood hardly surprised Jim. What both men knew now to have been a trick played on them by some unknown person must have been, not only mystifying, but more than a little disquieting.

A trick behind which might lie a definite warning of danger. It was Isham who brought the talk back to Severn. He was leaning back in a deep arm chair, his crutches by his side, the steel-gray eyes of the thin cynical face thoughtfully watching the smoke spirals from his cigar.

"That chap dashed past me in the grounds, going hell for leather," he said abruptly. "It seems damned queer, don't you think, that Severn, after giving the slip to his enemies, should bolt like mad from his friends? Can anyone suggest a reason?"

The reason was obvious, of course, to at least four out of the six there. But of those four, who knew now what Isham presumably did not know, each had a motive for keeping up the pretence that the fugitive had been Frank Severn. No one answered.

"Now if this were merely a thriller-story, not real life, how easily one could find a convincing reason! That scriptural phrase, 'A man's foes are they of his own household'—I should use that to supply the clue to my thriller," Isham went on with smiling lightness—and Jim was suddenly conscious of a quickening of tension in the atmosphere, saw the eyes of Sant and Martell fasten on the speaker. "Well, this would be my explanation: Severn, glancing in at the window, recognizes suddenly among those there, all supposedly his friends, the faces of secret treacherous enemies."

Sant's face had gone colorless. He half started up in his chair. "What the hell do you mean by that?" he broke out. Isham seemed surprised at the sudden vehemence outburst. He said with a deprecating shrug: "Sorry, Mr. Sant—only aren't you sitting rather heavily on a mild joke? I merely suggested—as a dramatic solution for such a situation in a story. You can hardly suppose I meant so fantastic an explanation seriously!" Isham laughed, imperceptibly cool. Sant dropped back into his chair. "Perhaps our ideas differ as to what is a fit subject to joke about," he said stiffly.

To Jim Wynter Isham's words had brought a swift startled thrill. He had suddenly realized that under their playful guise, they were very far from being a lightly spoken jest; veiled but deliberate challenge! And clearly Sant and Martell, their eyes smouldering with sudden brooding suspicion, were not blind to that underlying meaning.

And that scriptural phrase about "A man's foes," the same phrase had occurred in the first of those two anonymous letters. . . .

For Jim it was a swift revealing moment, so much had suddenly been made clear.

That unknown shadow in the background, the writer of those two letters—John Isham!

Not an accomplice, but a secret enemy working in the dark against this sinister circle at Beggar's Court—John Isham!

The man who had masqueraded tonight as Severn—John Isham! "What's happened to your sense of humor, Sant?" laughed Bill. "A damned ingenious solution I call it—for a suppositions situation in a thriller story as Mr. Isham explained."

"Of course, I had thought I made that quite clear," said Isham evenly. He blew a smoke ring, evidently unruffled by his host's frowning displeasure.

"After Mr. Sant's rebuke, I don't mention a theory I have—a fanciful one this time—about another phase of this mystery," he added.

"What's that?" asked Jim.

"Oh, as to why Creyke was murdered at Monksilver—and who they were, those men guilty of that cold-blooded crime," he said slowly.

The atmosphere in the room had suddenly become tense again; Jim, startled and puzzled, was very conscious of it. Was Isham deliberately playing on the nerves of Sant and Martell? Through the heavy silence came a sharp intake of breath from Helen Blair, her face dead white.

It was Isham who suddenly saw the girl's eyes close, the slender figure in the chair swaying limply forward. In an instant, forgetting his professed lameness, forgetting his crutches, he had sprung to his feet, caught the fainting girl in his arms as she was falling forward to the floor.

WASHINGTON ISSUED FIRST PROCLAMATION

Inaugurated Custom On November 26, 1789, Upon Request of Committee

CUSTOM SOON SPREAD

The custom of the President of the United States issuing annually a Thanksgiving Proclamation can be traced back to the time when George Washington was at the helm of the nation's affairs. On November 26, (the same day on which Thanksgiving falls this year) 1789, President Washington proclaimed for the first time a national day of thanksgiving, thereby setting a precedent for all future Presidents.

Celebration of Thanksgiving Day in America, we are informed by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, can be traced back to the earliest days of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. From there the custom spread to all parts of the United States.

Washington's first national Thanksgiving Proclamation met with some objections. When Elias Boudinot, on September 25, 1789, introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives, "That a joint committee of both Houses be directed to wait upon the President of the United States, to request that he would recommend to the people of the United States a day of public Thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by acknowledging and grateful hearts, the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity to establish a Constitution of government for their safety and happiness," it met with protest from some of the members.

Representative Thomas Tudor Tucker, of South Carolina, argued that it was not the business of Congress to ask for a national day of Thanksgiving.

Representative Aedanus Burke, of the same state, thought we should not mimic Europe "where they made a mere mockery of thanksgiving."

The objections were soon over-ruled and a joint committee, made up of Senators Ralph Izard, of South Carolina, and William S. Johnson, of Connecticut, and Representatives Elias Boudinot, of New Jersey, Roger Sherman, of Connecticut, and Peter Sylvester, of New York, waited on the President with its request.

President Washington complied and issued his proclamation on October 3, 1789, calling for a national day of Thanksgiving on November 26.

The original proclamation of Thanksgiving reads as follows: "By the President of the United States of America."

"Whereas it is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey his will, to be grateful for his benefits, and humbly to implore his protection and favor—and Whereas both Houses of Congress have by their joint committee requested me to recommend to the People of the United States a day of public thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness."

"Now, therefore, I do recommend and assign Thursday, the 26th day of November next, to be devoted by the People of these States to the service of that great and glorious Being who is the beneficent Author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be—that we may then all unite in rendering unto him our sincere and humble thanks—for his kind care and protection of the People of this country previous to their becoming a Nation—for the signal and manifold mercies and the favorable interpositions of his providence, which we experienced in the course and conclusion of the late war—for the great degree of tranquility, union and plenty, which we have since enjoyed—for the peaceable and rational manner in which we have been enabled to establish constitutions of government for our safety and happiness, and particularly the national One now lately instituted—for the civil and religious liberty with which we are blessed and the means we have of acquiring and diffusing useful knowledge; and in general for all the great and various favors which he hath been pleased to confer upon us.

"And also that we may then unite in most humbly offering our prayers and supplications to the great Lord and Ruler of Nations, and beseech him to pardon our national and other transgressions—to enable us all, whether in public or private stations, to perform our several and relative duties properly and punctually—to render our national government a blessing to all the People by constantly being a Government of wise, just, and constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed—to protect and guide all Sovereigns and Nations (especially such as have shown kindness to us) and to bless them with good Government, peace and concord. To promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the increase of science among them and us—and generally to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as he alone knows to be best.

"I'll stand by it!"

"I'll stand by tobacco . . .
in good times, in hard times . . .
all kind of times . . . it helps a whole lot!"

"I GREW up with tobacco. Mostly I smoke cigarettes now—but I've smoked plenty of cigars, and pipes, too. And I never got anything but good from tobacco in any form—pipe, cigar, or cigarette—and that goes for every smoker I ever heard about.

"Why, I remember as a boy, way back, how the old folks in the fall used to pick and cure tobacco from a little patch they'd raised, and save out the best for their own smoking. And my father fought all through the war, and lived to be ninety.

"He'd certainly appreciate what we get today, though. Just think about these CHESTERFIELDS of mine—fine tobaccos from all over the world, and cured and blended just so; you couldn't get anything purer or milder. Cleanest factories you ever saw, too—never a hand touching the cigarettes . . . everything up to date.

"A big improvement over the old ways . . . reckon that's why I like CHESTERFIELDS so much. I notice most of my friends get a lot of pleasure out of them, too.*

"But what I started out to say was, you can always depend on tobacco, no matter how things are going. Probably there was never anything in the world that meant so much to so many people, and cost so little, as tobacco—whatever way they smoke it.

"Yes, sir—I'll stand up for tobacco as long as I can strike a match!"

*NOTE. In the sections where tobacco grows and where people know tobacco, Chesterfield is usually the largest-selling cigarette.

New Plan by Makers of Vicks Cuts the High Cost of Colds

Saves Money, Time and Health by Better "Control-of-Colds"

Test of Plan Offered by Bristol Druggists on Unlimited Guarantee of Satisfactory Results

The high costs of colds are more than ever a problem this winter. In every family, therefore, it is news of peculiar interest that the makers of Vicks VapoRub have developed a Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. A Plan to reduce the number, the severity and the costs of colds.

A New Vicks Product

The Plan is made possible by a new preparation — Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea in "preventing" colds, it is a companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern external way of "treating" colds. The two aid and supplement each other. Together, they make possible further reduction of the burdensome family "Colds-Tax."

Trial Offer to VapoRub Users

Use of this Vicks Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in your home will mean fewer colds — less severe colds. It will mean cutting your high costs of cold troubles — a saving in money, loss of time and health. To say nothing of the discomforts of colds and the severe ills that often follow colds. Test the Plan for yourself — without risk. Get a bottle of the new Vicks Drops today. Use it with Vicks VapoRub as directed. Unless results are entirely satisfactory, your druggist will refund the price of the Nose Drops — and the test will have cost you nothing.

Here, briefly, is the Vicks Plan for better "Control-of-Colds."

1.—Before a Cold Starts

Use Vicks Nose Drops—a few drops up each nostril—whenever you have been exposed to anything which your own experience tells you is apt to give you a cold—contact with others having fresh colds, crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places — a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride — sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold — inhaling smoke, dust, gases — excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking — after a hard day, when you are over-tired.

In short, don't wait for that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—Nature's warning that you are actually "catching cold."

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub—now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer. Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. During the day, use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours—any time, any place. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drops, actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

This gives you full 24-hour treatment without and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion — especially of children — and lowers body resistance to disease at a time when it is most needed. Don't "dose" colds except on your doctor's advice.

HIGH SCHOOL DETERMINED TO SCALP MORRISVILLE

By Leon Schiffer

Will Bristol defeat Morrisville High in the annual grid grapple on turkey morning, when both elevens meet on Island Field, Morrisville, is a question which is in the minds of the local football public today.

Spirit at the latter's institution is at fever pitch as the students prepare for the historic tilt. Later in the evening parades and pep meetings sponsored by the student body and Fathers' Association will be held.

Meanwhile the Cardinal and Gray minions with their indomitable spirit still prevailing over the grid-iron, are slowly rounding into tip top condition for Thursday's looming game with their perennial rivals.

Chagrined by some practical joker placing a "Beat Bristol" notice sent from Morrisville on their locker room door, the Bristol boys are determined to win at all sacrifices.

Incidentally this will be the last game for several of the Cardinal and Gray members, notably among whom is Raymond Pico, diminutive but clever captain of the eleven.

Other backfield cohorts of Pico who will see action for the last time in their school careers are Ed Gaffney, Ralph Narcissi and Rens Swan.

Those stationed on the line who will also bid adieu to their last high school game are James Esposito, John Gallagher, "Peck" Wright, Joseph Britton, "Tommy" Barrett, and John Dougherty.

With their last game of their school career looming on the horizon, one will see these valiant boys exerting themselves as Trojans of yore in order to defeat the inspired and cocky Morrisville eleven.

In all probability, the Bristol mentor will start the following line-up: Ends, Esposito and Dougherty; tackles, Gallagher and Barrett; guards, Britton and Wright; center, undecided; quarterback, Pico; half-backs, Cole and Leighton; fullback, Bornice.

HULMEVILLE ARROWS
MAKE QUITE A RECORD

HULMEVILLE, Nov. 25.—Hulmeville Arrows, roller skating hockey team, has a good record for the past season, as shown by a resume of the several games participated in.

Of the fourteen frays the Arrows had seven wins, two ties and five losses. Considering the short length of time the local aggregation has been meeting with other teams the record is considered excellent, and in cases of defeat the scores of the opponents have been held down.

The season's record here given shows first the team opposing the Arrows, next the visitors' score, and then the score for the Arrows:

Trenton Black Hawks, 3-2; Trenton Black Hawks, 2-0; Cardinal Pals, 0-2; Hulmeville Aces and Black Hawks, a combination team, 3-4; Cardinal Pals, 0-2; Black Hawks, 3-3; South Langhorne, 1-2; Hulmeville H. J., 2-2; Black Hawks, 2-1; South Langhorne, 0-2; Hulmeville H. J., 1-4; Hulmeville Aces, 3-1; Hulmeville Aces, 2-0; South Langhorne, 0-1.

Hiker is Killed When Struck by Automobile

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 25.—A man believed to be a resident of Newark, was instantly killed by an automobile last night while he was walking along the Lackawanna Trail a short distance south of Doylestown. Death was due to a broken neck.

The victim had given his name as William V. Vallenar and Frank Vallenar, of 26 Sherman street, Newark, a companion told Sergeant Miner, in charge of the Edison, Pa., Highway Patrol.

The other man, Charles J. Ferguson, of 490 Springfield street, Newark, said that he had become acquainted with the victim at Newark several days ago and that they had started out together to hike to Washington, D. C., where Ferguson, a World War veteran, intended to go to a naval hospital.

According to Ferguson's story he and his companion were picked up by the State Police at Flemington on Monday and were kept in jail there overnight. At that time, Ferguson said, the other man gave his name as Vallenar. Later, however, State troopers who stopped them on the road were told he was William Vallenar.

The victim was struck by a car operated by Harry Michener, 26 years old, of 203 Shewell avenue, Doylestown, who declared the man stepped out into the path of his machine. The driver took him to Doylestown Emergency Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Dr. John J. Sweeney, Bucks County coroner, viewed the body and decided to hold an inquest later. Michener was arraigned before Justice of the Peace W. C. Hobensack, of Doylestown, on a technical charge of manslaughter. County Judge Hiram H. Keller set bail at $1,500.

Authorities will check up with Newark police in an effort to have the man definitely identified.

Bitter Fight On Taxation
Plan Now Assured

regarding the levying of a one cent a gallon gasoline tax for 15 months which would raise an additional $15,000,000 for building of rural roads. The Governor's program proposes an increase of two cents per gallon for two years.

Sponsors of the new program realize that without additional general taxation a deficit may result at the end of the current biennium but believe a return of normal business conditions would prevent it. On that point a summary of the plan said: "A small deficiency at the end of the fiscal period may be helpful to retrenchment of expenditures during this and the next fiscal period."

Final decision on the concrete features of the new program as opposed to the Pinchot plans will be reached next Monday afternoon when sub-committees from the finance and appropriation committees of both houses will meet in executive session.

Late yesterday the Senate appropriation committee increased the amount carried in the general appropriation bill to pay the expenses of the

Men to Watch in Army-Notre Dame Classic

As the football season draws to a close there remains at least one tid-bit to which enthusiastic grid fans have been looking forward all season. The battle between Notre Dame and Army, scheduled for November 28, at New York, is the tussle that makes the mouths of the followers of the pigskin water in anticipation. Last season's game was won by the Irish by the closest of margins, 7-6, despite the fact that Notre Dame was an overwhelming favorite. So one can never be sure how fortune is going to smile or frown. The Irish line-up this year is an imposing one, composed of the warriors that have ridden rough-shod over all opponents to date. Joe Sheeketski has earned an enviable reputation as a ball carrier that requires a lot of stopping. Marchmont Schwartz is mentioned almost all of the sports scribes as a certainty for the All-American, and George Melinkovich has made his mark as an outstanding figure of a great team. Facing them in the Army uniform will be Captain Jack Price, a gentleman with an uncanny knack of springing surprises; Robert Carver, who, many say, is the big kick in the Army mule, and Kenneth Field, who on his every appearance this season has turned in a fine performance. As has been pointed out in a game of this sort anything can happen. So it is a question for November 28 to decide—can the Irish ride the Army mule?

session so that it will be possible to continue until January 18. That was taken to mean that Senate leaders are prepared for a long struggle.

The action of the committee and announcement of the new program followed closely on the heels of the joint meeting in the house at which members of the Pinchot cabinet, labor union leaders and welfare workers were given full opportunity to paint the picture of unemployment, starvation and misery.

Instead of being a public hearing, as expected the speakers were not subjected to questioning. The meeting had been heralded as the first real attempt to settle controversial claims regarding unemployment and possible starvation. Instead, administration critics claimed, it was a carefully planned stroke to allow only presentation of the Governor's own viewpoints.

When the meeting opened every seat on the House floor was taken and the aisles were crowded with spectators. When it closed a count showed seven members of the Senate and 37 of the House.

Senate leaders were reported planning to ask the cabinet members who appeared yesterday if they will again appear before the Senate and submit to cross examination regarding claims they yesterday read into the House records.

HULMEVILLE

At Hulmeville Park rink tomorrow at two p. m., the Arrows hockey team will play two games, one with South Langhorne, and a second with Perkasie Juniors.

Mrs. Walter Jackson had as her guests last evening members of Peppy Pals sewing class.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Transue, of Bristol; Miss Melba Smith, of Bath Road, and Arthur Kaufman, of Hulmeville, enjoyed a theatre performance in Philadelphia Saturday evening.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Campbell, Main street, were: Mr. and Mrs. James P. Riley, of Monmouth Junction, N. J.; Miss Eva Campbell, of Audubon, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. John Ritter and children, Jack and Dorothy, of Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. Anthony High, of Cheltenham. Over the week-end William High, of Emilie, was entertained at the Campbell home.

YOUR

BRAKES that are only a "little bit" out of adjustment can cause accidents as easily as those that are actually defective.

A front wheel brake that pulls a little to right or left when you stop may suddenly serve you into a parallel line of traffic. Rear brakes that drag or grab only slightly may start a skid that can end disastrously.

There is only one way to know your brakes are safe—to know that they will not involve you or your family in an accident. And that way is to have your brakes inspected regularly.

We can give you the skilled inspection and adjustment that is necessary—and we can take care of you quickly and at moderate cost. If your brakes need re-lining we will install American Brakeblok—the new-type brake lining that stops cars quicker—and stays in adjustment longer.

Have your brakes inspected now. Don't wait until it is too late.
